Written by Daeron of

Know ye mortals that whilst thou dost sleep
blissfully unaware,
great events doth take place. The Clan of Vampires hast been amonst thee for sometime now, though only recenlty did we return fromthe
shadows of which we slept.

Though we are
certianly driven back,
still do we prey upon the peoples of PaxLair and drink
from the founatin of blood at its heart.
Though thou yet doest despoil the grounds of the graveyards we come to make sure that hey are cleansed again with mortal blood.

As was said, greate
events hath occurred.
Mighty Mazrim adn
his faithful minion
the Soul Slave hath indeed met with the Kindred. E'ev now plans are being laid adn potential alliances

are being made.
Though he was present, thine eyes be not ready to glmipse
his countenance yet
for when it dost
appear theymight
never see sooth again.

None shall stop the
destiny that unfolds, not She marked by the Crescent moon, not the Beasts that walk by night, not the mortals
with gleaming arms
and potent magics, not the lore that was seized form us and now sits in PaxLair's Library.

Weep for the coming of Gehenna, weep for the fall of the false
"Virtures," weep for the way of life's end
- for it comes.
